Little Shaver

Q. I've been searching for an ice shaver, called an Ice Pet, but haven't had any luck. Could you help me find one? S. W., Long Beach.

A. It's a little early for snow cones, but if you're intent on making your own, May Co. Downtown, 801 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, has them on sale for $7.95. The small hand machines, made in Japan, shave ice cubes. The store has only a few left, so we've asked them to save you one. Campbell's Union Ice Products, 625 W. Anaheim St., Long Beach, has a hand shaver which shaves large blocks of ice and sells for $1.

Good Show

Q. The Friends of the Long Beach Museum of Art are putting on their annual art bazaar to help the museum on May 26. We want to follow a British theme, to relate to the Queen Mary. Where can we get an English guardhouse and where, besides the British consulate and travel association, can we get some decorating ideas? H. H., Long Beach.

A. We found you an eight-foot high guardhouse in red and yellow stripes at Roschu Props, 6514 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles. The guardhouse rents for $17.50 for four days. Decorating tips will be provided to you by Mrs. Gerald Hall, a member of the Britannia Society of Long Beach. She says she has some towels showing British scenes, English magazines and pictures and other articles which you can borrow. She also promised to publicize the bazaar at the society meetings. The Britannia Society, founded in 1942, meets the first and third Saturday of each month at Morgan Hall. It is also the parent group for the Royal Dart Club and the newly formed Queen Mary Club. To further carry out your British theme, you might also want to sell British delicacies, such as fish and chips and potted salmon. In Long Beach, the Jolly Friar, 459 E. 10th St., sells fish and chips, and the London Bakery and Imports, 2212 E. Fourth St., sells various types of British groceries.

Sugar Uncle?

Q. Coming south on Atlantic Avenue I noticed a billboard with a portrait of Uncle Sam and the words "He's Your Uncle. Not Your Dad." Can ACTION LINE tell me what organization put up this sign? M. N., Long Beach.

A. The patriotic message is put out by Pacific Outdoor Advertising Co. in Los Angeles, says Arthur W. Goff, vice president of community relations for the company. He explains the idea for the billboard came from Hal W. Brown, chairman of the board, after he saw a similar ad in a magazine. "An uncle may give you a gift now and then but you can't depend upon him for everything," explains Goff. Brown thought it would make an effective community service billboard. The company now displays three of them in Southern California. A new billboard is scheduled to appear soon, according to Goff, which will read "Pledge Your Allegiance To The Flag."

Music in Vermont

Q. Where can I get information on the Marlboro Chamber Music Festival held every summer in Vermont? What are the dates of the festival and what are the qualifications for participating? H. W., Long Beach.

A. The Marlboro Festival, a gathering of more than 80 professional musicians for the study and performance of chamber music, enters its 18th season this year. It will be held at Marlboro College in Marlboro, Vt., July 6 through Aug. 18. Tickets go on sale April 15, but ticket information and order forms may be obtained before that date by writing to the Marlboro School of Music, Attn: Anthony Checchia, 1430 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19102. The application deadline for participation in the festival was Feb. 15, according to Pauline Borges, executive secretary for the festival. But if you are interested in participating next year, you may write Checchia and you will be sent all the necessary forms. Only professional musicians are chosen to participate; the festival is not a school. The Marlboro Festival originated in 1950 when Rudolph Serkin, now artistic director, and flutist Louis Moyse, a music professor at Marlboro College at the time, decided they would like to explore the chamber music repertoire and play good music for their own enjoyment. The festival now attracts such great musicians as Pablo Casals, Leonard Rose, Isaac Stern and Rosina Lhevinne.

Good Angle

Q. My husband is very interested in fresh-water fishing and usually rents a boat whenever he goes out on an angling trip. As a surprise gift for our 25th anniversary, I would like to buy him an outboard motor for his expeditions. But I know nothing at all about what size or type would be best suited to his needs. Could you advise me? Mrs. V. H., Long Beach.

A. Nu. But Independent, Press-Telegram Outdoor Editor Don Culpepper can. He will be glad to give you his opinions of the best brands and sizes of outboards for your husband's purposes. Information on how to contact him is being sent to you.

Line Drive

Q. In the name of hundreds of handball players who use the handball courts at Long Beach City College, I would like to ask that the interior of the courts be painted. They are kept clean, but the walls and serving lines are in serious need of paint. Can ACTION LINE see what can be done about this problem? J.R.K., Long Beach.

A. A spokesman for the Long Beach Unified School District assured ACTION LINE the City College handball courts are scheduled to be painted this summer and will be made into first-class courts. Painting and repair work within the school system is done on a priority basis, and classroom needs are usually met before those of sports facilities, the spokesman explained.

Oregon's Green
In RFK Camp

United Press International

Gov. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont defected Friday to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination. He was the first governor to endorse Kennedy.

The New York senator also picked up the support of a prominent House member, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., who said she would be co-chairman of his campaign in the Oregon primary, where President Johnson and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., will also be on the ballot. Mrs. Green headed John F. Kennedy's campaign in the Oregon primary in 1960.

Hoff, until recently a warm supporter and defender of President Johnson, told a news conference in Montpelier that he decided Thursday to break with the President after Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York announced he would not contest Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination.

"It pulled me out from my dreams that the Republican Party would have offered a choice in a candidate," Hoff said.

HE SAID Johnson's policies and his call for "austerity" in the face of a riot commission report which urged vast new undertak-

Hijacked Airliner Released

CARACAS, Venezuela, Saturday (UPI) — Cuba early Friday returned a Venezuelan airliner hijacked at gunpoint with 50 passengers, including 11 Americans.

The plane, a $1.1 million Convair turboprop of state-owned Avensa Airlines, landed at Maiquetia International Airport at 1 a.m. today.

Release of the plane, hijacked Thursday en route from Caracas to Maracaibo, was negotiated through the Swiss Embassy in Havana.

THE CUBANS agreed to release the plane after Avensa paid an estimated $700 in "landing fees" and for refueling, the spokesman said.

The plane, hijacked by three armed men, was forced to land at Santiago, Cuba, on the eastern end of the island, because it lacked the gas to make it to Havana.

All 11 Americans aboard the hijacked plane are believed to be employed by American oil firms with bases in South America.

Swiss Bid to Help Us Negotiate

BERN (UPI) — The Swiss government, after meeting with a North Vietnamese emissary, offered Friday to help negotiate a peaceful conclusion to the Vietnam war.

North Vietnam, at the same time, told Switzerland it is still prepared to enter into peace negotiations as soon as the United States halts bombing of the north.

A Swiss government communique contained the two pledges at the end of a four-day visit to Bern by Mai Van Bo, North Vietnam's representative in Paris. The statement was issued by Foreign Minister Willy Spuehler.

The Swiss government statement said Bo emphasized "that the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam) is earnestly prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said he had no confirmation from Bern that the Swiss government planned any role as a mediator. As for Bo's statement that North Vietnam would be "seriously prepared" to talk if the bombing stopped, McCloskey said, "We have heard that before."

to participate in peace negotiations as soon as the bombing (of North Vietnam) is unconditionally halted."

For its part, Switzerland told Bo, it is prepared to "make available its good services for a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam conflict," the communique said.

Spuehler gave his government a report on his discussions with Bo. He said the government had authorized him to tell the North Vietnamese representative that Switzerland is ready to contribute $950,000 toward "humanitarian actions for the benefit of war victims" in the north.

GEN. WESTMORELAND
On Way Out

'Westy' Regrets Transfer

SAIGON, Saturday (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland said today he was told of his impending transfer to Washington in a telephone call from the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, and that he regrets his departure before victory and peace are achieved.

Westmoreland was in the Philippines on a quick visit to his family, when President Johnson announced in Washington that he will become Army chief of staff by July, and will give up the Vietnam command to an unnamed successor.

WESTMORELAND flew back to Saigon immediately. A reporter at Tan Son Nhut airport asked if President Johnson informed him personally of the new appointment, and Westmoreland replied: "Negative. I received the information in a personal call from Gen. Wheeler."

Asked if he thought Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, his four-star deputy commander in Vietnam, would be named to succeed him, Westmoreland said: "I would hope so. I have absolute confidence in the ability and leadership of Gen. Abrams."

Westmoreland said he learned of his new job about 7:30 a.m., Saigon time, less than an hour after the White House announcement in Washington.

"I regret to leave this war-torn land before the battle is over and before peace is restored," Westmoreland said as he left the plane that brought him from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adam Clayton Powell gave himself up to the sheriff of New York late Friday night in connection with the contempt of court sentence facing him. Powell was promptly freed on his word that he would immediately appeal his conviction.

Powell was accompanied by his attorney Henry Williams when he turned himself over to Sheriff John J. McCloskey in front of the home of Judge Arthur Markewich of the New York Supreme Court.

The three went into Markewich's house for a brief hearing at which Powell was freed on condition he would appeal his contempt of court citation immediately to the appellate division of the Supreme Court, McCloskey said.

The appellate division has refused to hear Powell's appeal until he had complied with the Supreme Court's order to surrender.

General to Head Army Staff

By MAX FRANKEL
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Johnson announced Friday his intention to appoint Gen. William C. Westmoreland as Army chief of staff, replacing him as commander of American forces in Vietnam some time before July 2.

No successor for the field command was announced.

The shift of the general, whose tactics in the war have recently been heatedly debated here, was recommended to him, the President said, by both Robert S. McNamara, the former secretary of Defense, and his successor, Clark Clifford.

The first suggestion from McNamara, the President said at a news conference in his office, came on Jan. 19 — eight days before the start of the enemy's lunar new year offensive. The offensive was seen as a serious setback to Westmoreland's campaign.

JOHNSON HELD up a handwritten note from McNamara and went on to praise Westmoreland as a "very talented and very able officer."

No changes in strategy or tactics were implied by the change of personnel as such, Johnson said. But he left open the possibility that the new commander — as yet undetermined — might make some new strategic or tactical recommendations.

Westmoreland has been particularly criticized for his "search and destroy" concept of chasing enemy forces even into uninhabited terrain so as to inflict high casualties and wear them down by attrition.

Questions also have been raised about his willingness to stand in static defense posts, as part of this strategy, far from the major population centers that have been shown vulnerable to enemy assault.

BUT THESE TACTICS have had the approval of the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, after careful and constant scrutiny. Recommendations for their

Man Finds Wife, Son Dead in Pool

A Huntington Beach man came home from work Friday and found the bodies of his wife and their only child in their backyard swimming pool, according to police.

A rubber football floating in the water gave a clue to the tragedy officers said. Dead are Mrs. Rosemary Kokowicz, 29, and her son, Eric, 2.

Officers surmised that sometime after 9:30 a.m., when Eric had last been seen playing by neighbors, he kicked his football into the pool behind the family residence at 877 Albatross Drive.

He tumbled in while trying to recover it and his mother, who had been ironing and could see the pool area, rushed out, kicked off her shoes and plunged in to rescue him.

The coroner's office said a wristwatch Mrs. Kokowicz was wearing had stopped at 11 a.m.

Kokowicz told police he arrived home shortly after 5 p.m. and immediately started a search when his son did not greet him. He said both his wife and the boy could swim.

The tot's body was fully clothed, as was his mother's except for shoes, police said.

The AEC said the underground detonation caused no damage and released no radiation into the atmosphere.

The test had been delayed two days by unfavorable weather.

Army spotter plane first spotted the sampans along a canal 12 miles northwest of An Long and about 10 miles from the Cambodian border Friday afternoon. The plane sounded the alarm and patrol helicopters moved in on the fleet of sampans running arms and ammunition to Viet Cong guerrillas in the Mekong Delta. U.S. military sources said Cambodia now has become a well-used pipeline for the Communists to send war supplies into both the Delta and Saigon areas. In another air attack Friday, U.S. B52 bombers dumped approximately 200,000 pounds of bombs on the "Iron Triangle" sanctuary about 20 miles northwest of Saigon. The "iron triangle" is a long-held Communist jungle stronghold where the main body of 13,000 Viet Cong is believed taking refuge from Operation Resolved to Win.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Shriver New Envoy to France

Combined News Services
President Johnson Friday named R. Sargent Shriver, the only member of the "Kennedy Clan" still in his administration, to be U.S. ambassador to France.

Johnson chose Wilbur J. Cohen, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare since 1965, to succeed John W. Gardner, who recently resigned as the HEW secretary to direct the urban coalition, a private anti-poverty organization.

Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity who was brought to Washington by the late President John F. Kennedy to run the Peace Corps, will be nominated shortly for Senate confirmation. Shriver's shift to Paris to succeed Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen after months of delay would remove Shriver from the ticklish position of working closely with a president whose renomination is being opposed by Shriver's brother-in-law, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D. N.Y., Shriver's wife is the former Eunice Kennedy.

The deputy director of the anti-poverty office, Bertrand M. Harding, will be acting director in Shriver's place until a permanent successor is chosen. French Government officials said earlier that President Charles de Gaulle had told President Johnson he would welcome Shriver's appointment. The French cabinet approved the choice at a meeting Wednesday.

Last Saturday, young Wells was killed in action.

HAPPIEST MAN IN CAPE TOWN

Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's only living heart transplant patient, has been home a week now and by all indications there can't be a happier man in Cape Town. "I never felt better," he tells newsmen and friends, and it is plain that whether this is literally true or not he is ebulliently happy to be alive.

He is still under close, constant observation and makes a daily trip by chauffeured limousine to the hospital for a checkup. The apartment he shares with his wife, Ellen, and a maid is under guard and visitors are limited to Dr. Christiaan Barnard or members of the heart surgery team.

Yorty Will Press for Viet Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty ended months of speculation Friday by announcing he won't seek the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator.

Instead, he said, he'll speak out for victory in Vietnam.

"I believe I can do this better as mayor of Los Angeles because I will not be accused of seeking votes," he said.

Yorty, a political maverick who in 1960 supported Republican Richard M. Nixon over Democrat John F. Kennedy for President, said he reached his decision Thursday night. It was news even to his wife, Betty, who had urged him not to run and sat among reporters at a crowded news conference.

He said he finds it "appalling" for some U.S. leaders, "while our men are being asked to die . . . to accuse the United States of fighting an immoral war to stem global Communism."

"I have decided not to run because I want to speak out for America."

Yorty's decision leaves in the Democratic primary race State Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, 35, Beverly Hills, and former State Controller Alan Cranston, 53, a Los Angeles real estate developer. Both are antiwar candidates. On the Republican side Dr. Max Rafferty, California superintendent of public instruction, opposes the re-election bid of Thomas H. Kuchel, assistant Republican leader in the Senate, who generally supports the war.

Yorty called Cranston's running "the last dying gasp of the machine he built, the California Democratic Council." Cranston in reply told a newsman he does not have the CDC's primary campaign endorsement.

Hahn Rips Reagan on Welfare

From Our Los Angeles Bureau

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn charged Friday that Gov. Ronald Reagan has used the poor as "punching bags" in the state administration's proposal for a $275-a-month welfare ceiling.

Hahn, noting that 12,547 Los Angeles County families on public assistance have six or more children, declared:

"I do not see how any family with that many children should be expected to live on $275 a month."

He called for keeping the number of children as a criteria for aid. "It would be cruel and inhumane to neglect children from large families," he stated.

Hahn conceded there is an urgency for welfare reform and called for eliminating red tape and pushing to find jobs for persons on the welfare rolls.

"But I will not stand quiet and see the poor, the neglected, the blind, the orphans, the widows and the disabled used as punching bags by anyone, including the governor," Hahn said.

Youngster's Fingertips Sewed Back

Doctors Friday sewed two fingertips back on the hand of a 2-year-old Long Beach boy after a woman laundromat patron helped police retrieve the fingers from gas dryer machinery.

Bernard Drake III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Drake Jr. of 1423 E. Broadway, was in good condition at Community Hospital after plastic surgery.

Young Drake lost his fingertips while playing around dryers at the Econo-Wash Laundromat, 3602 E. Broadway, just before noon. Officers Thomas Lind and B. W. Smith were dispatched to the laundry to find the fingers after a call from hospital surgeons.

They discovered the fingers had passed through dryer machinery into a locked and bolted back room. No one knew how to reach the laundromat owner to open the room.

Officer Lind ripped off a piece of metal grating near the ceiling, opening a one-foot-diameter passage, but the hole was too small for him to slide through.

A laundromat patron, Mrs. Ginger Reeder, of 11 Marina Drive, Seal Beach, volunteered to crawl into the room, and found the fingers with aid of a flashlight, police said.

Schmitz Set to Show 'Aid Abuse'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, said Friday he would present evidence to a Senate hearing next week showing some families on welfare are living on $1,000 a-month budgets.

Schmitz said he would present the documents during a hearing on a measure he has introduced that would put a $400-a-month lid on welfare assistance for a household with an income of more than $400 a month.

Schmitz said Donald L. Maxon, a Butte County supervisor, would divulge the case of a family in his county that received an income of $810 for June of 1967, and was also given $147 for the month by the state in public assistance, for a total income of $957.

Clues Sifted in Bride's Rape Death

Pasadena homicide detectives were tracing the owner of a compact car and sifting meager clues Friday in the brutal rape-slaying of a German bride of five months whose body was found by firemen called to put out a brush fire near the Foothill Freeway.

Meanwhile, the coroner's office reported that 25-year old Anna Elizabeth Payne, wife of a spacecraft tracking technician, died from a fractured skull. An autopsy report disclosed she had been raped.

Larry N. Payne, also 25, a Jet Propulsion Laboratory employee who lives in Barstow, identified his wife's body late Thursday.

The Paynes had been staying in their small trailer in Oak Grove Park near Devil's Gate Reservoir as Payne completed two weeks of training at JPL's Pasadena facility. He works at the firm's Goldstone Tracking Station near Barstow.

Detectives said they are looking for the owner of a tan compact car seen parked near the Payne's trailer.

Deukmejian Opposes Legislators' Pay Hike

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Opposition to a retiring assemblyman's proposal to raise the salaries of legislators was expressed Friday by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach.

The bill, AB 1125, was introduced Thursday by Assemblyman Edward Elliott, D-Los Angeles. It called for increasing legislators' salaries from $16,000 to $17,600 effective Jan. 6, 1969, the start of next year's session. Elliott has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election.

Deukmejian said he understood Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh favored the pay raise, and expressed surprise that Unruh "would support such a proposal at this time."

"Last year we asked the people of this state to pay additional taxes just to keep our heads above water and to provide the state with enough money to pay its bills. The sacrifice requested of taxpayers should be matched by all who seek further benefits from the state, including legislators," Deukmejian said.

Stockholder Hits Signal Oil With $603 Million Law Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Signal Oil and Gas Co. Friday was sued for more than $603 million by an irate stockholder for dropping plans to merge with Occidental Petroleum Corp.

The Superior Court suit was filed by attorney Alan T. Lorenze on behalf of himself and all other stockholders in Signal Oil. He claimed the stockholders lost money when the merger was abandoned.

NAMED defendants in the suit were Samuel B. Mosher, chairman of Signal; Forrest N. Shumway, president of Signal; directors of Signal and other key officers in the firm.

Lorenze said Signal announced the proposed merger with Occidental last Jan. 30, stating there would be a $1.2 billion stock exchange. But on Feb. 20, following a board meeting, Shumway allegedly announced the directors voted unanimously to halt the merger because of a "change in market conditions."

Shumway's statement was "grossly untrue," Lorenze claimed.

LORENZE claimed there were 20,106,957 shares of Signal stock subject to the terms of the merger with Occidental.

The attorney said Signal stock was worth $50 to $55 per share last Feb. 20 due to the proposed merger, but its value has declined to $34 as of last Wednesday. He contended that had the merger occurred, the stock would be worth $70 now.

SURE YOU CAN PLAY ORGAN MUSIC

Beginners, especially those who have never played a note, who may think they have a "tin ear" or can't "carry a tune" are invited to come in and learn to play a tune, free, in minutes.

"Instant Organ Playing," was the way one leading columnist described our revolutionary new rapid learning method. Even if you have never studied music, one of our highly-trained staff members will have you playing a pleasing melody in minutes.

Learning is fun because you progress quickly as you play complete songs. Playing the organ will reward you pleasantly all the days of your life.

There is no obligation. It's hard to believe, but it's absolutely true!

We are so excited about this revolutionary rapid-learning method that we want everyone to know the pleasure of playing a big-sounding tune on the Hammond Organ. Come in soon to the friendly Hammond Organ Studios.

Nurses Urged to Stay on Job

By ROB ANDREW

Despite a $28-758 vote against mass resignations to force an immediate pay raise for Los Angeles County nurses leaders Friday were not discouraged.

"We do not feel this is a defeat," said Joan Stanio, chairman of the County Health Department's Nurses' Professional Performance Committee.

"We will stick together and work for better patient care," Miss Stanio added, explaining this is the first time nurses have united.

Miss Stanio contends the patient is really the heart of the conflict between nurses and the Board of Supervisors.

To aid recruitment of nurses for county hospitals, which have a heavier case load, the nurses are seeking a 15 per cent pay differential over private hospital scales.

The differential dropped to 9 per cent last year, and would be reduced to 4 per cent when other nurses throughout the county get a pay hike April 1.

Mrs. Bonnie Graczyk, chairman of the Joint Professional Performance Committee of the California Nurses Association, followed announcement of the balloting with a plea for all county nurses "to stay at the bedside until July 1."

SHE ADMITTED that some who favored resignation might quit anyway, but contended money was not the primary concern.

"I'm concerned with setting a standard of nursing care for my patients," said Mrs. Graczyk, head nurse at Harbor General Hospital. She said no differential would be sought if the nursing-hour ratio at county hospitals was increased to the level in private institutions.

Children Doze Off in Class

spectors began checking Mrs. Galbreath's room.

They checked it for a gas leak of some kind, or any sort of toxicity. They found nothing. And while they were checking, a school nurse rushed to the principal and said, "I wish you'd come look. Those children are falling asleep."

The principal ran to the room and watched while several of Mrs. Galbreath's students nodded off to sleep. Children from the other class looked on wide-eyed. Children from other classes in the school do not fall asleep.

Since then, different children from Mrs. Galbreath's class have gone to sleep at midmorning in a mobile classroom, in the school auditorium and in the cafeteria.

"These kids are pretty well knocked out," McLean said. They are hard to arouse. He also said they are not relaxed while asleep. But, he said, they show no ill effects.

"We worked with it awfully intensively quite a while until we were assured we were not dealing with disease or toxicity of any form," said McLean. "Every investigation has turned up negative with the exception of the psychological approach. The psychologists and psychiatrists we called in as consultants do feel this is the source. They have not pinpointed an actual diagnosis. Certainly we feel there is no health hazard."

McLean said his guess is "a habit pattern that has been very strongly reinforced by the fact that every time they go to sleep, they get extra attention and frequently are taken home. This is only supposition. The psychiatrists are working on that."

DR. DON SCHULTE, psychiatrist at the Sand Hills Health Center, agreed with McLean, saying: "The kids have just gotten unbelievable return from all this publicity."

"There's a lot of question about whether they are asleep or not. We feel like the kids are getting some sort of return from this kind of gimmick. I don't mean to imply they are doing this purposely, although some of them may be."

2 More Demos Defect to Bobby

ings, were the key elements in his decision to support Kennedy. He said he would work for Kennedy wholeheartedly.

"I fear that our present leadership has yet to respond to these crises in a manner designed to inspire the confidence necessary if they are to be resolved," Hoff said.

In Washington, in his first public comment on Kennedy's candidacy, Johnson said he wasn't surprised.

"I have no comment on his entrance other than I was not surprised—and I could have made that statement to you a year ago," Johnson told reporters.

THE PRESIDENT, who has still not announced whether he will seek reelection, picked up some support of his own Friday. Frank O'Connor, the president of New York's City Council and his party's gubernatorial candidate in the last election, was named to head a statewide committee in support of Johnson.

The New York State Democratic Party was reported deeply split over Kennedy's candidacy. Several upstate county chairmen said they opposed Kennedy, and Rep. Samuel Stratton said he would vote Republican if his party nominates Kennedy.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey carried the Johnson banner to Pittsburgh where, before a regional Democratic conference, he took a stab at Kennedy, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and former vice president Nixon.

TALKING ABOUT attempts to end the war, Humphrey said that "others" say more could be done, but "I must admit that their concern has yet to be matched by their specifics." Added Humphrey:

"A candidate of the other party" — an obvious reference to Nixon — "says he has a plan for peace in Vietnam. But he can't unveil it until next year. What kind of cynical partisanship is this?"

Later, in Milwaukee, Humphrey urged Wisconsin Democrats to support Johnson in the April 2 primary.

In a speech delivered at a Democratic rally, Humphrey said Wisconsin can provide the answer to the question of whether the United States is "courageous enough to pursue the difficult middle way" and make necessary sacrifices for a stable peace.

"WISCONSIN'S answer can be a ringing vote of confidence for an American president who refuses to play the politics of popularity when the peace and security of the United States are in the balance," he said.

Nixon campaigned in Wisconsin, where his only active opponent in the GOP primary is Harold Stassen, the former governor of Minnesota.

McCarthy flew from Wisconsin, where he said he was "quite certain of victory" to Detroit, where 500 college students met him at the airport, chanting "Peace, Peace, Peace."

He said he had been "led to believe that the old liberal spirit had disappeared in Michigan," but that the crowd showed him he might have been wrong.

Code of Ethics Voted by Senators, 67 to 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Friday approved a code of ethics for its members for the first time in history after two years of study and a week of agonized debate. The strongest feature of the code would require publication of the source and use of private contributions.

The roll call vote was 67 to 1, with Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., casting the dissenting vote. "We are bringing a fraud on the public by making it appear we're trying to purify ourselves when we are only making it worse," he told his colleagues.

The code was drafted by the Senate Ethics Committee, formed after the Bobby Baker scandal that came to light in late 1963, and was carried to the floor after the Senate censured Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., for financial misconduct.

SHORTLY BEFORE the final vote, the Senate overwhelmingly defeated a proposed amendment by Dodd dealing with use of proceeds from fund-raising affairs.

Dodd suggested permitting senators to pay off old political campaign debts with such funds, but establishing elaborate safeguards to prohibit their use for nonpolitical purposes. His amendment was rejected.

ed, 65 to 5. "I don't know whether it's very important to me now, but you ought to be protected," Dodd said before the vote.

"Let's write it out, spell it out and don't leave any doubt for anyone what we can or cannot do," he shouted. "We've been living in a jungle." Dodd voted for the code in the end.

AS FINALLY approved, the ethics code would require that senators, senatorial candidates and Senate aides earning more than $15,000 a year file in a sealed envelope with the comptroller general a copy of their federal tax returns, showing all income.

The envelope's contents also would have to show the amount and source of each fee over $1,000, the names and compensation from each business or professional association, the identity of each interest in real or personal property assessed at more than $10,000, the identity of each trust of more than $10,000, the identity of each liability over $5,000, and the source and value of each gift.

This information concerning any senator would be available only to the scrutiny of the Ethics Committee on a majority vote of its members.

THE CODE also would: —Force senators to make public all contributions and all honorariums of more than $300.

—Ban "moonlighting" or extra-office employment by Senate employees without the written permission of their employers.

—Prohibit handling of campaign funds by Senate aides except those earning more than $10,000 a year, and then only if their names are listed with the secretary of the Senate.

Westmoreland Leaving Viet to Be Army Chief of Staff

revision would still pass through Westmoreland's hands after he becomes chief of staff and his superior, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Johnson also announced Friday that he had asked Wheeler to break custom by staying a year beyond the end of his second two-year term on July 2. This, too, will require Senate approval. The President said he already had the concurrence of the leaders of the House and Senate armed service committees.

To make a generally smoother transition, the President also said he had asked Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp to delay his retirement as United States commander in the Pacific from May until July 2. Westmoreland was considered for this post; too, Johnson said, and a replacement has not yet been decided upon.

JOHNSON'S BRIEF

praise of Westmoreland Friday was merely an echo of the fulsome expressions of confidence the President offered him on many occasions in the past. The last was at the President's previous news conference on Feb. 19, a month after Johnson was urged to promote the general, and at the height of rumor here that he soon would be replaced in the field.

The President said then that these rumors were being spread to discredit a soldier during one of the great tests of his career. He had never worked with a man in the military for whom he had a higher regard or a greater respect, he said, and he did not know how to put it more strongly.

Noting that the general had already served four years, Johnson said on Feb. 19 he could not say he would never leave. But he said he had no intention of seeing him leave and no plan for him to leave. The President also took note of rumors that the general would be promoted to the Joint Chiefs. He said he had never discussed that with the general, but as far as he was concerned, "If there is any way General Westmoreland could go, it would be up."

NEITHER THESE remarks nor those added by the President Friday, however, foreclosed a change of approach to the war with Westmoreland's departure. Asked if such a change was implied in the promotion, Johnson said that strategy and tactical operations "have nothing to do with the appointments as such." But he added that he could not speak for the plans of the next commander.

"I don't think it would be fair or correct or possible today to announce the program of the unannounced, unknown successor."

'CLEARCUT OLD CALL'
'Herald of Truth'
Evangelist Tells Success Secret

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A trio of golden trumpets in the emblem for John Allen Chalk's ministry. It carries to millions the clear-cut, old call for conversion to Christian faith.

"Today's church cannot last more than another generation without restoring the Biblical emphasis on personal conversion to Christ," says Chalk, who mans the "Herald of Truth" radio pulpit.

The keynote he cites has been generally toned down of late in the approach of most major churches, whose efforts for furthering the gospel have shifted in part from direct personal persuasion to working for human betterment.

"The failure to stress authentic surrender and meaningful commitment to Christ means that the majority of modern church members will never have a satisfying spiritual life," Chalk said.

WITHOUT IT, many "quit the church," he added in an interview. A handsome, six-foot Tennessee of 31, Chalk has the youthful verve, sincerity and appeal that often marks the mass-drawing evangelist, and he reaches an increased, nationwide audience.

In a period when radio networks have cut down sharply on paid-time religious broadcasts, the airing of his Sunday sermons last month was expanded to include two major networks, the biggest combined hook-up for a program of its kind.

"We're trying," he said, "to get at the real public, in society, business, on campuses, where people and their real needs are, beyond the institutional, heavily structured type of religion for religion's sake."

Sponsored by the loosely knit, fast-growing Churches of Christ, Chalk's talks have been newly added to NBC's Sunday morning schedule, plus its Sunday afternoon outlet over the Mutual network.

His call for personal "surrender to Christ" reflects the accent of his denomination, which has become the fastest growing in the country. Its membership of nearly 2.5 million is more than double its one million of 1950.

The Churches of Christ, a movement of about 18,500 independent congregations, has no overarching organization, but the congregations and individuals chip in voluntarily to support an annual $1.5 million radio-

Radio Program is Number One

Arnie Hartman, Killman at 1st Baptist Sunday

Famed accordionist Arnie Hartman, and Russell Killman, director of the Heaven and Home radio program, will combine their musical talents Sunday 7 p.m. in an unusual concert at First Baptist Church, 10th Street and Pine Avenue. Due to a mixup in dates, it was incorrectly listed for last Sunday, but this is it, and the blend of talents promises to be well worth having waited for.

Pastors of two of Long Beach's oldest downtown churches, First Methodist and Covenant Presbyterian, will exchange pulpits Sunday as a symbol of their close fraternal relations. Dr. Hugh David Burcham will speak at First Methodist, Fifth and Pacific, and Dr. Donald R. O'Connor will be at Covenant, Third and Atlantic, for both the 9 and 11 a.m. services. After the services members of both congregations will join in a luncheon at Covenant.

MONDAY NIGHT 'DIALOGUES' CLICK

The word has spread around town that the current series of "Forums Toward Religious Growth" sponsored by the Christian Education Committee of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches packs a real punch.

Here is a schedule of the third sessions this Monday night. It is still possible to attend sessions even if you have missed the much-talked-about opening forums.

"DIALOGUE WITH THE COMMUNITY," which last week grew from 35 to 65 in the central district, moves back to First Methodist, Fifth and Pacific, 7:30 p.m. It deals primarily with Negro-Caucasian problems.

"COMMUNICATIONS MEDIA IN THE CHURCH" will convene at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hospital for demonstrations of equipment that have helped bring about the revolution in communications. Rev. Robert Gunter, hospital chaplain, will lead the discussion.

"INTER-FAITH DIALOGUE," Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, shifts to Temple Israel, 3538 E. Third St. at 7:30 p.m., with Rabbi Wolli Kaetler leading. Catholics and Jews have reportedly been showing more ecumenical spirit, attendance-wise, than Protestants so far in this one.

"GENERATION GAP" dialogue will have the opportunity to hear and question Rev. Ross Greek, noted Sunset Strip minister, starting 7:30 in First Methodist.

"TEACHING MINISTRY AND UNDERSTANDING THE CHILD" will also be at First Methodist at 7:30, with Mrs. Edna Trumbo leading a group of experts.

Acclaimed Ladd Thomas to Dedicate Grace Organ

Ladd Thomas, one of America's most acclaimed organists, will dedicate the new 37 rank Schantz organ in Grace Methodist Church, Third Street and Junipero Avenue, with a recital Sunday, 7 p.m.

Organist of the Pasadena Symphony and visiting instructor in organ at Pomona College, Ladd holds a masters degree in theology. He has played concerts around the country. A sampling of press reactions: Miami Herald: "Mr. Thomas is possessed of a prodigious technique, a vivid and imaginative approach to his instrument, and interpretive daring... gentleness, lyricism, and emotion... a remarkably balanced program."

Rochester Times Union: "A knowledgeable musician and, above all, one with an astounding command of technique... and a digital facility that seemed equal to any demands." Honolulu Star Bulletin: "The organ recital at St. Andrews Cathedral by Ladd Thomas was an unforgettable experience... a dazzling finale to the local Beach Festival."

The Grace Methodist organ was designed especially for church music and is reputedly one of the most versatile in Southern California. There is no admission charge. An offering will be taken.

Church Women to Study Riot Commission Report

Church women across the country will be asked to undertake a nationwide "crash study" of the Report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, it was decided at a consultation of women leaders held in Chicago.

The study is to focus attention on conditions in the ghettos and to enlist community support for plans to change them. Simultaneously, the women leaders commissioned a survey of facts on conditions in local communities and announced the holding of a nationwide opinion poll on issues contained in the commission report.

Rev. Dr. Charles Spivey, executive director, Department of Social Justice, National Council of Churches, challenged the church women to specific action.

"Look at the welfare laws in your cities," he said. "Find out what happens in the city jails. What kind of garbage collection service is provided in the ghettos? Are the scales carefully checked in the stores there?" he demanded.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Getting Tension Under Control

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Is tension a problem? Well, I have good news for you. You can relax — if you will just take the trouble to learn how. It is important to get tension under control if you want to be healthy and happy.

Since mind and body continuously interact, a basic factor in relieving tensions in nerves and muscles is to cultivate mental calmness. Without a calm mind you cannot have a relaxed body, much less think and work efficiently. Fortunately, anyone can cultivate a calm mind and relaxed attitude. As a matter of fact you can learn to be calm even during strenuous activity with noise and confusion all around you. And believe me with that ability comes amazing new power for you.

I witnessed a spectacular example of this recently at the Millrose Games, an annual indoor track meet held in Madison Square Garden. Pole vaulter Bob Seagren, age 21, from the University of Southern California, had previously made a new world's record, being the only man who had ever cleared the bar at 17' 3". Just before this meet at the Garden he was asked what he hoped to do. "I'm not looking for any records," he said. "I have plenty of vaulting ahead this year, and if I can't have fun now, forget it. But," he added, "I'm so relaxed that I just might go out and bust the record."

AND HE did just that. He cleared the bar at 17' 4 1/2". Talk about relaxation! It was beautiful. A deft push on the flexible pole, a smooth long climb into the air, soaring like a bird over the bar, and down onto the rubber, to the delight of 15,000 yelling spectators.

After that achievement you might have thought a guy would call it a day. But not Bob Seagren. He went and sat down leaning back against a post, looking lazily up at the bar. Two officials walked over and asked him something. He responded with a gesture that seemed to say, "Okay. Why not? Let's have fun." So officials put the bar up to 17' 8". And with dozens of photographers taking pictures he tried three times — but failed to make it. Did that bother him? Not at all. When asked if he thought he might sometime clear 17' 8" he calmly answered, "Eighteen feet is possible. Somebody is going to do it. I want to be the one."

I know nothing of the boy's philosophy. But in the confused, excited atmosphere of a track meet, with 15,000 spectators, he sure demonstrated the power of relaxed living with a calm mind in control.

There are any number of good relaxation techniques. I have used one which I learned years ago from Roger Babson, a great statistician, who died last year at the age of 92. Babson in his prime was perhaps an outstanding authority on economics and investment. In addition to directing the statistical organization which he founded, he wrote many books and was in demand as a lecturer. I once asked him how come he was always so relaxed and self-possessed. He replied that he kept himself relaxed by daily practice. Here is how he went about it.

SEVERAL TIMES a day he would devote a few minutes to deep rhythmic breathing in a manner recommended, he said, by a certain athletic coach. He was taking a deep breath, filling the lungs, holding it an instant — then letting it out. He did this a half dozen times, at the rate of six breaths per minute.

This in itself, as I have personally found, can be healthfully relaxing. But Roger Babson added some mental and spiritual connotations to the process. He said: "I breathe out all my worries, irritations, tensions as I let my breath out. Then I breathe in God's peace . . . I breathe out my tensions . . . I breathe in God's peace . . . I breathe in God's peace . . ."

Since a human being is body, mind and soul, the most effective relaxation methods are those in which the relaxing influence is physical, mental and spiritual. Try it and see if it doesn't work for you.

'I CANNOT ACCEPT IT AS GOD'S WILL'

By Louis Cassels
United Press International
Tom O'Connor is editor of the Allendale County Citizen, a weekly newspaper published in Allendale, S.C.

Besides being a good newspaperman, he's a loyal American and a faithful, church-going Christian.

During the past year, Tom has lived in the gethsemane reserved for parents sweating out the return of sons from the war.

The other day I got a letter from him, inclosing a column he's written for his paper. I don't think you'll enjoy reading it, any more than I did. But I think we all need to read it, and to think long about it. It says:

"My son came home from Vietnam early this year. When he was last here, in October, standing big, poised and confident, I guessed I would have the record cabinet all built before he came home again in February, and, secretly, I planned to refurbish the darkroom for his new interest in photography.

"When I followed the honor guard up the aisle of our little church in January, I remembered that it was here he assumed one time a military stance and with measured tread marched toward the altar bearing the cross before.

"There was somewhere in me, on that bitter day, a block of ice that contained and constrained all of me that could be called me. I was not cold in the steel and rain and the wind that blew across a dark day, when the skies wept and I could not. "Just as the rifles barked sharply in a last salute, and from a distance the bugle began its mournful declaration of farewell, the rain brushed coldly, softly against my cheek.

"For a moment I raised my eyes and remembered that he liked, on days such as this, to go, booted and wrapped, off across the fields and into our woods. . . .

"I cannot accept my son's death as a matter of God's will. I must reject a God who would create so well and then purposely destroy. The God I reverence is a God of creation. My son was destroyed, I am afraid, by me and by you and by man's will, denying the will of God.

"God's own Son died because of the wilfulness of man, unheeding the plea for peace on earth. For too long we have let ourselves be instruments of wilful men, feeding their ambitions, their greeds, their lusts for power with the lives of our sons. . . .

"With all his vaunted advancement, man is still led by savage chiefs. My son's death was decreed in councils of the mighty dominated by the vanities against which God has spoken.

"Only when kings and rulers and leaders of men dedicate every bit of their strength to the end that there shall be peace on earth and among mankind a rejection of war as a solution to any problem, can it ever be said that my son, and the sons of sorrowful millions of others, did not die in vain."

Dove Clergy, Hawk Laity; Oral Switch, Groppi Fuss

By LES RODNEY

Last April, covering the National Assn. of Evangelicals conference in Los Angeles, we noted signs of a change of stance toward social issues by that considerable body of American Protestants who call themselves conservative evangelicals.

A joint communique issued by 25 of the nation's top evangelical leaders after a conference in Washington, D.C. this month shows that the evolution in thinking has ripened.

It amounts to a refreshing, non-"infallible," public admission that some leading evangelicals have been slow to recognize that Christians are called to also concern themselves with the immediate problems of their fellow men. That questions about racial discrimination, poverty, urban blight, etc. are not to be kissed off as "political," but are deeply moral questions on which Jesus Christ's church must speak.

"We have not made clear the full implications of the love of God for all men," the evangelical leaders said. "We have been insensitive to the Biblical concern for justice and mercy . . . The church has not demonstrated before the world the oneness of the body of Christ across all boundaries of race and class . . ."

In "open repentance," the leaders pledged themselves to "more clearly discern the injustices of our time and the practical expression of the love of God for all men" and encouraged "all Christians everywhere to share in this initiative, and to seek to discover ways to contemporary meaning to the full dimension of the Christian gospel."

Having made the National Council of Churches constituents aware of the necessity to keep social concern from becoming just a lay welfare activity, and not to forget evangelism, the evangelicals in turn are apparently recognizing the opposite danger of sterile aloofness from the world of their own time.

A question they may face — as the "mainline" denominations can ruefully tell them — is opposition by a section of the laity, and a minority of ministers as well, to any kind of social concern in the church. But this is dwindling.

REV. GLENN Clifton, pastor of Lime Avenue Southern Baptist Church, reports there were 42 Cuban refugees at the church for services last Sunday. He hopes for a Cuban pastor to minister to them.

TO NOBODY'S great surprise, a poll of nine major Protestant denominations reveals that anti-Vietnam war sentiment is far stronger among the clergy than the laity.

Nearly 35,000 readers of nine magazines responded. The cooperating publications were The Christian (Disciples), Church and Home (EUB), The Episcopalian, The Lutheran, Together (Methodist), Presbyterian Survey (Southern), United Church Observer (Canada), United Church Herald and Presbyterian Life.

Asked if they favored an immediate and unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, 57 per cent of the clergy but only 28 per cent of the laymen said yes. (38 per cent of the clergy and 60 per cent of the laity were flatly opposed to a halt, and the rest were undecided.)

On whether the U.S. should "use all military strength short of nuclear weapons to achieve victory," it was 30 per cent of the clergy, 60 per cent of the laity.

Only among members of the United Church of Christ in this country did a majority of both clergy and laity favor a bomb halt and oppose a military drive to victory. (The United Church of Canada also.)

Noting the contrast, Dr. Albert Stauderman, associate editor of The Lutheran, said "Officially the churches may coo like a dove but the majority of their members are flying with the hawks."

Some cross currents of thinking by the very same people were indicated by these results: "If a situation like Vietnam were to develop in another part of the world do you think the U.S. should or should not send troops?" — Should not, 58 per cent, should, 30 per cent.

"Should the U.S. begin to let South Vietnam take on more responsibility for the fighting?" — Yes, 81 per cent, No, 12 per cent.

On whether the Vietnam war was more likely to prevent or start World War III, it was split right down the middle, 44 per cent on each side.

Fifty six per cent felt the churches should give "information, aid and guidance to those who refuse induction on the ground of religious conviction," and this fell to 40 per cent for those who believe "conscientious protest against the war should be defended by the church whatever the consequences of such action."

SECOND BIGGEST surprise of the week after Rockefeller's nix had to be famed evangelist Oral Roberts, a Pentecostal Holiness minister for 21 years, announcing his affiliation with a Methodist Church in Tulsa, and the fact that he will complete preparations for becoming a Methodist minister next week.

"HAND IN HAND," an award-winning British movie about the friendship between a Roman Catholic boy and a little Jewish girl, revealing how the youngsters overcome the challenge of prejudice with childish logic and a disregard for adult narrow mindedness, will be presented Sunday, 4 to 5:30 p.m. on the CBS Television Network.

WHAT DO you think of this quote from "The Secular City" by Dr. Harvey Cox, Harvard's controversial Baptist theologian: "Our competition with the Communists is not that they favor a world revolution and we do not. Rather we must espouse a different kind of revolution, a revolution that makes the fruits of the earth available to all people without depriving them of the benefits of political and cultural freedom. We must be MORE revolutionary than the Communists."

ANYONE WHO holds the old stereotype idea that "Roman Catholics all think alike" might take a peek at the results of a poll conducted among 3,000 students of Manhattan College, a New York Catholic institution.

For example, they were asked:

"Do you believe that under certain conditions the pope can speak infallibly on matters of faith and morals?"

Twelve per cent replied "Yes, he is personally infallible."

Fifty-three per cent said: "Yes, he is infallible when he reflects the thinking of the entire church."

Sixteen per cent said "No, he is not infallible under any circumstances."

And 20 per cent said that infallibility was a meaningless concept to them.

THINGS GOT hot in the Milwaukee B'nai B'rith when that Jewish organization named Rev. James Groppi as one of the recipients of its annual interfaith human rights awards (they go to a Catholic, a Protestant and a Jew.)

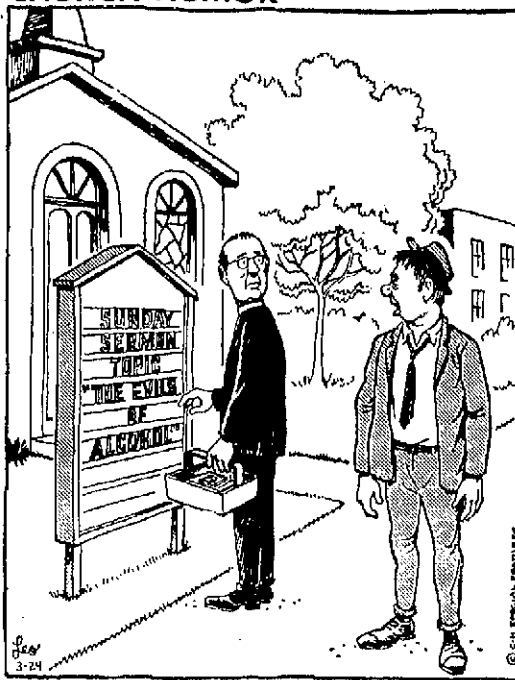

Petitions signed by 714 members objected to the choice. They said the fact that the militant priest had five court convictions for his civil rights activities demeaned the award. Nonetheless, the award stuck, and a cheering audience of 400 packed the banquet at the Jewish Center. The national executive vice president of B'nai B'rith, called in with the hope that he might help heal the wound, took one look at the situation and said he wouldn't even try.

When Father Groppi stepped forward to receive his award, he said jokingly: "I'm told I am the first man to split the Jewish community since the year 1."

KNOW ANYONE gifted at composing suitable music for a selected hymn text? A competition with a prize of $100 for the best musical setting for a hymn text is again being sponsored by Trinity Presbyterian Church of Atlanta, Ga. It is, they advise, "part of a continuing program to encourage contemporary expression in the arts."

Contest closes July 31, and the prize will be announced early in the fall. Composers interested in entertaining can write the church for a copy of the rules and of the chosen hymn text. Address: Trinity Presbyterian Church Hymn Contest, 3003 Howell Mill Road NW, Atlanta, Georgia 30327.

NUNS AWAIT POPE'S REPLY TO PETITION

The sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary said this week that they await a reply to their petition to Pope Paul VI to continue their experimental break with traditional church ways.

Sister Anita Caspary, mother general of the order, says the 500 sisters petitioned the Pope Mar. 14 after receiving a letter of instruction Feb. 29, from the Sacred Congregation for Religious in Rome.

Over local opposition, the nuns want to be able to wear layman's clothing and engage in occupations other than teaching.

The letter of instruction, in effect, ordered them to forego their modern dress and other changes and reaffirmed the authority of James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of the Los Angeles Archdiocese, over the order.

"We cannot accept this letter as the final word," a spokesman for the nuns said, "and so we are petitioning the Holy Father."

The statement from Sister Anita said, "we want to be free to answer need in spontaneous and uniquely personal ways. We will draw strength from our association with each other." The letter of instruction specifically ordered the sisters to adopt a uniform habit, to meet daily for prayer at the same time, to emphasize education as their primary work and to accept the authority of their local archbishop.

KUCHEL, MURPHY BACK APPEALS

U.S. Senators Thomas H. Kuchel and George Murphy of California have given warm personal endorsement to the Spring appeals of America's great religious faiths for support of their overseas relief programs.

The current appeals are the Catholic "Bishops' Overseas Aid Fund" appeal and the Protestant "One Great Hour of Sharing," both of which will be observed in churches in California and elsewhere on Sunday, March 24, and the "United Jewish Appeal," a continuing effort with special emphasis at this period of the year.

COCU Tackles Big Structural Hurdle

Associated Press

Protestantism's big push for unification goes into a critical stretch this week-end to see if it can get over a tough operational obstacle.

After having agreed on basic principles of doctrine and worship, representatives of 10 major denominations face a problem which so far has stymied them — how to mesh their different organizational systems.

That structural hurdle will be the main issue before the seventh annual meeting of the Consultation on Church Union, starting Sunday in Dayton, Ohio.

It comes at a time when widespread activities in the life of the churches "testify to a new and prevalent ecumenical mood," says a study report distributed to participants.

Paradoxically, the report notes, the developments show "a decreasing emphasis on structures" upholding particular denominational values — the very concern that has stalled the reunion talks.

Rather, the spontaneous, emerging emphasis has been on methods for accomplishing the common Christian task together, through "structures for an ecumenical mission," the report says, adding: "Rightly guided, the developments may be an important stage on the way to achievement of structural unity."

One of the chief conflicts so far has been over the power of bishops. The Methodist Church gives them full authority to appoint and remove pastors; while the other denominations give varying prerogatives in the matter to congregations and the pastors.

Faith Teeters On the Edge of a Cliff

By MARILYN HELLEBERG
Housewife, Kearney,
Nebraska

My husband was out of town on business, and the spring day was too inviting to waste on loneliness; so with my two children, their playmate from across the street and a picnic lunch, I drove to the lake a few miles from town.

The children remembered the last time we had been to the lake we had brought sleds and skates, so they were excited to see green trees and blue water where spidery branches and gray-white snow had been.

"God has used the magic of the warm sun and spring rains to wake up the trees and flowers," I told them.

"You mean," said 5-year-old Karen, "God has been here before us and done all that?"

"Yes, and He's still here. God is everywhere."

With typical 5-year-old persistence, she continued to press me, "Why does He wake them up?"

"THAT WAS A TOUGH ONE." "Well, I guess because He loves all living things and wants to take good care of them," I answered, choosing my words carefully.

When we were ready to leave, Karen and her friend, Susan, wanted to go to the restroom, so I parked the car on the knoll by the bathrooms. Paul, my 2-year-old, and I waited for them in the car.

When Susan came back to tell me that Karen needed help with her sunsuit, I pulled on the emergency brake, told Paul to wait in the car, and went up the hill.

I HAD JUST STEPPED inside when I heard Susan scream. I rushed out to see the car rolling backward, off the road and down the slope toward the high embankment which marked a steep drop-off into the lake. The emergency brake had failed!

Something seemed to explode inside my chest as I ran, shrieking, after the runaway car. But there was nothing I could do! It was moving too fast — farther and farther away from me.

In a rush of panic, I realized that there was no hope. Paul was on his way over that cliff to certain death.

Yet, incredibly, I heard myself saying, "Thank God." Thank God? How I could be saying that in such a moment is beyond me. However, in that instant when there was no logical hope I knew — yes knew — that Paul would be saved.

It was almost simultaneous with that thought that a young boy came out of nowhere. He ran alongside the moving car, fighting desperately to pull the door open. The cliff loomed closer. Another thought crowded into my mind: They would both be killed!

THEN THE YOUNG-STER disappeared inside the car. It swerved to the right, still heading toward the embankment sideways. But as the right side of the car came to the brink, it slowed and seasawed on the ledge, seemingly hanging by its left wheels. As though defying gravity, it balanced precariously on the edge.

It is still going over, I thought. Then I began running again. As I ran I saw the boy scoop Paul in his arms, jump out, and carry him to safety. When I reached Paul and the boy, I hugged them both, crying in near hysteria. The car teetered for a moment, then steadied on the ledge.

The boy's name was Robert Royle and I remember telling him that I knew positively God had sent him.

He shrugged his part off with this explanation:

"My folks decided to walk around the lake and I started to go with them, but changed my mind. There's a good view of the boats from here."

I, however, choose to believe that God did take part in this one small episode in life; just as I believe He is interested in all His creations. I thought back to the question Karen had posed earlier in the day about the spring awakening of trees and flowers.

"Why does He wake them up?" she had asked.

"Because He loves all living things and wants to take good care of them," I had told her.

The depth of that love and the tenderness of that care were revealed to me on a bright spring day.

Next—Adela Rogers St. Johns, author of many best-sellers, tells of a remarkable occurrence during World War I when her son was fighting in the Battle of the Ardennes.

LOADING FOR FRANCE

Stumps of Value—Burls

By DICK EMERY

On a harbor wharf in Wilmington there are piled several hundred big black tree stumps.

They have been waterproofed with wax.

And they're insured for $300 to $750 each, which is not bad for a tree stump.

"They're tree stumps, all right," admitted a dock foreman, "but what they REALLY are is burls, black walnut burls."

The foreman, Don Lanier of 24524 Island Ave., Wilmington, whose crew of longshoremen will be loading the stumps on the British freighter MV Bannervale Monday morning, talked about them.

"In California, walnut trees produce best when they are grown from English walnut trees grafted on black walnut tree roots," he said.

"Where the graft is made on the young tree, close to the roots, a burl forms. It is a solid growth of black-walnut wood, which is extremely hard with swirled grain.

"After 25 or 30 years the tree stops bearing. They cut the tree down and dig up the burl, trim off the roots and truck the burl to the harbor.

"We've got maybe 1,500 of the burls here now for the Bannervale. But 50,000 a year go out from here, Berth 188 in Los Angeles Harbor, and from Long Beach Harbor.

"These are coming from around Ventura, where old walnut orchards are being cleared for housing projects.

"The burls go to France. They get cut up into pipes — tobacco pipes. But that's only from the smaller burls and pieces.

"The best burls go into making expensive black-walnut veneer for beautiful furniture and interior decorating."

Residency Rule Repeal Sought by 10 L.B. Groups

Filing of resolutions from 10 organizations and one individual, all urging Long Beach councilmen to submit to the voters a proposal to repeal the residency requirement for city employees, was revealed Friday.

The resolutions are identical, and, in fact, were drafted by the Long Beach Police Officers Association.

Robert Johnson, association secretary, said it has been mailing copies of the resolution, ready for signature, to any individual or organization expressing interest in repealing the residency requirement.

All but one of the resolutions filed this week with the city clerk were from organizations or individuals in Long Beach. The one exception was sent in by Mrs. Vivian Kiley of La Palma, president of the Young Republicans, on behalf of that organization.

Resolutions also were received from the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, the Triangle Park Merchants Association, the North Long Beach Exchange Club, John Read Realty, Inc., and from attorney Roger A. Kander.

SEVERAL RESOLUTIONS came from unions. They are the Service and Maintenance Employees Local 399, Carpenters Local 710, General Truck Drivers Local 692, Musicians Association Local 353 and Bricklayers Local 13.

Johnson said the purpose of the campaign is to demonstrate that Long Beach residents, other than city employees, are interested in abolishing the 47-year-old requirement that city workers live in the city.

He pointed out supporters of the residency requirement have contended only city workers are interested in a change.

The resolution contends the 4,000 city employees are "being deprived of the right to own and reside in homes of their own choice, being required to live within the city limits of Long Beach by an archaic charter provision, enacted in 1921."

"This unreasonable restriction works great hardships, not only on the employees of the city, but on major city departments which find their recruiting campaigns seriously hampered thereby," the resolution asserts.

It urges councilmen to place before the voters a charter amendment which would delete the requirement that city employees live within the city limits. Elected or appointed city officials still would be required to maintain residency in the city.

Lincoln Park Garage's Financial Mess Worse

By DON BRACKENBURY

The financial condition of the Lincoln Park Parking Garage continues to worsen, and the future is anything but bright, City Auditor Murray T. Courson said Friday.

During the fiscal year ending last Nov. 30, the garage had a net loss of $108,737, Courson said.

Even after payment of the city's guarantee of $68,000, the net loss was $40,737, he pointed out.

As of the end of the 1966-67 fiscal year, the corporation had a total deficit of $161,131 since it began operations on Nov. 19, 1962.

The garage's financial position "continues to be unfavorable," Courson said, and it appears the corporation will be unable to meet the requirements of the bond indenture this year.

In order to retire the bonded indebtedness and the note payable, which total $2,033,000, and to recover the $161,131 in operating deficit, Courson said, the garage would have to achieve total income of $2,194,131 from last Dec. 1 through Aug. 1, 1966.

This would mean the garage would have to increase its revenue by $156,000 above the 1966-67 fiscal level, which included the city's annual payment of $68,000, he explained.

The city payment is guaranteed only through 1972, Courson pointed out. After that, the corporation would need annual revenues of $294,000 — or four times the $69,701 it earned during fiscal 1966-67.

Based on a seven-day week, the garage would have to earn $1.65 per day or $56 a month for each of its 488 available parking spaces. The current rates are 25 cents an hour, with a $1-a-day maximum, or $15 a month. The garage operates on a six-day week.

Total operating revenues in fiscal 1966-67 increased $2,042, or three per cent. Transient parking revenues were up $3,555, but this was offset by decreases in monthly parking, sales and service and miscellaneous revenue.

Total operating expenses were $178,438, an increase of $10,573, or 6.3 per cent. The increase primarily resulted from the proration of city and county property counts. The corporation taxes to the operating account $16,804 in city and county taxes under protest, but its first appeal on the payment was denied.

THE RODEO ARRIVES

Hosses Sunfish in L.B.

By BUCK LANIER

Horses sunfished and turned their bellies to the skies Friday in an attempt to throw off riders competing for more than $17,000 in the rodeo which opened at the Long Beach Arena.

The stock was outstanding, the riders sharp and the specialty acts entertaining.

Cowboys — 235 strong — are competing for $17,760 in prize money.

The thrills started early when Dan Freeman, of Baker, Ore., last year's national intercollegiate champion, picked up 54 points on "extremator" to take the lead in bareback bronc riding.

Then, Sherri Vincent, Miss Rodeo America, made her entrance.

Her horse took a sharp turn, stumbled and she fell. As the crowd gasped, she bounced back, remounted and continued her ride around the arena.

The 6,000 fans roared their approval.

It took the "Saga of the West" specialty act to put the crowd into a real rodeo mood. To devolve the ending would be unfair to those planning to see the shows today—at 2 and 8 p.m.

A herd of genuine Texas longhorn cattle play an important role in this exciting specialty act.

Gary Denny, Colorado Springs, amazed fans by bulldozing his steer in 4.9 seconds. He was off his mount and had the animal pinned—before the crowd realized the excellence of his performance.

"Surprise Package"—a wild bucking saddle bronc—paid off for Ralph Maynard as the Thunder Butte, S. D. rider scored 63 points to grab the first go around lead.

John Miller, Pawhuska, Okla., took the first night honors in calf-roping and tying his animal in 14.6 seconds.

The finale—brahma bull riding—provided its usual excitement. Freddy Greer, Dallas, scored 63 points to take the lead.

The rodeo will conclude Sunday with 2 and 6 p.m. shows.

Services Today for Navy Man Killed in Viet

Memorial services will be held at 10 a.m. today in the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station chapel for Lt. David H. Wyrick, killed March 18 while on river squadron duty in the Mekong Delta of Vietnam.

He is survived by his wife Tina, of South Laguna, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Buckles of Alliance, Ohio.

Another Long Beach area man killed in Vietnam action was identified Friday by the Defense Department as Specialist Fourth Class Steven L. Messerli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Messerli, 12056 Kenny St., Norwalk.

Find Beaten Body of L.B. Woman

The brutally beaten body of a young Long Beach woman was found Friday in her blood-spattered bedroom by officers checking an anonymous telephone tip.

They arrested her husband as he climbed out a rear window.

Officers who found Mrs. Robbie Jean Worthy, 23, sprawled across a bed at 1469 Warren Ave., said the room was a welter of blood and broken furniture.

They booked John Lawrence Worthy, 30, on suspicion of murder.

Homicide Sgt. Lewis Lyons said it appeared Mrs. Worthy had been dead since early Friday.

Officers went to the one-bedroom home after an anonymous female caller told police to investigate. Worthy first told police he killed his wife, then later said someone had broken in and beaten her Thursday night, detectives said.

Dumke Hits Violence on College Campuses

By RALPH HINMAN
Education Editor

California State College at Long Beach Week, closed Friday night with a banquet in Lafayette Hotel in which more than 800 civic leaders turned out — in the words of the invocation — "to show our deep regard for our college."

In a major address on "Social Dissent," Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke of the state college system, said: "There is no need for violence or even civil disobedience in a nation with carefully structured constitutional safeguards of liberty."

DANIEL H. RIDDER, co-publisher of The Independent Press-Telegram, and a trustee of the state colleges, was master of ceremonies.

Dr. Dumke said society gives "the academic community a priceless privilege — the privilege of following truth wherever it leads. In return, society exacts a price — that the academic world consider problems and issues and controversies besetting society.

"The moment the campus forgets this atmosphere in which it must deal with controversy," he said, "then the campus loses its right to be academically free."

Even so, "We must permit dissent in appropriate and constitutionally-protected forms on the campuses," Dumke said, adding: "We must not permit it to take the form of force, violence or an undermining of our system of peaceful change through law."

DUMKE called on his audience to play a part "of the utmost significance, not only to academe, but to society as well. For if, he warned, "Our colleges and universities are wrenched or warped into some new malformation as a result of unlawful dissent — or over reaction to it — all society and this nation will suffer."

He suggested three specific ways "you can help":

— "By putting recent campus eruptions in perspective. They are like a boil — not representing total corruption of the bloodstream and seldom fatal. —

— "To understand these problems are a phenomenon of (today's) society."

Dumke said his position is between that of UC President Charles J. Hitch and state School Supt. Max Rafferty, who hold, respectively, that universities can hardly be immune to disturbances; or that higher education should "hold itself above the general level and be a beacon to mankind."

It is "unrealistic," the chancellor declared, "to expect a college president to maintain an island of absolute calm while Detroit and other cities crackle with the flames of burning buildings. On the other hand, our constant effort should be to make campuses better than the world around them."

— Finally, "The job facing you is to help the great sound, moderate, constructive majority of students, faculty and administrators keep the campuses from going Latin. Let us not become like some universities in nations south of the border, where they have lost their identities as educational institutions, becoming breeding grounds for revolution and violent social change."

I.P.T. PROBES 'GOLD CRISIS' IMPACT ON L.B. FAMILY

How a typical Southland family will be affected by the current "gold crisis" is the subject of an article by Bill Duncan in Sunday's Independent Press-Telegram.

If you are an average Southern California wage earner, with an average-sized family, burdened with consumer debt, the attack on the stability of the American dollar probably concerns you.

It shouldn't, say Long Beach area economists and a bank manager. Even if the United States could not stave off attacks on the dollar and was forced to devalue it as international currency, the move would have little or no effect on the average wage earner.

Bill Duncan's article may be of vital importance to you. Look for it Sunday.

Week's Wall Street Trend

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week went through its fourth straight weekly decline but showed at the end that there is one thing that can cheer it up — a peace move.

Except for Monday, when Wall Street celebrated what seemed to be a stopgap solution to the gold crisis, losses outnumbered gains every day on the New York Stock Exchange. On Friday, however, there was a brief rally that almost succeeded in reversing a market retreat. This was based on news that the United States is in touch with Switzerland on the question of peace talks with Vietnam.

The peace talk possibility triggered a vigorous rally, but the news was too thin to bring in full-fledged buying support.

Dashed by Monday morning, as has happened so often in the recent past, or the recovery could go on for a good distance if diplomatic efforts actually seem to be getting somewhere." The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week dropped 3.3 to 299.5, making its fourth weekly decline.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 11.50 to 826.05.

On Thursday the Dow Industrials finally made a new closing low for 1968 when they broke through the March 5 bottom of 827.03 and closed at 825.13.

The rally on Friday was assisted to some extent, analysts said, by technical buying support generated just above the 820 line in the Dow industrials. The next support line is at 810.

Volume for the week was 44,074,370 shares compared with 50,635,000 the previous week.

Of 1,643 issues traded this week, 959 declined and 515 advanced.

Standard & Poor's broadly based index of 500 stocks lost .68 at 88.42.

Some leading issues bucked the downturn very well. Penn Central rose  $5\frac{1}{4}$ , Chrysler  $2\frac{1}{2}$ , Schenley  $2\frac{1}{2}$  and Peabody Coal  $3\frac{1}{4}$ .

Poultry and Eggs

By GEOFFREY PARKINSON

With Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis
 "All that glitters is not gold." But gold has become the most influential factor in recent trading. It is expected that the next real move by the market will depend on news developments in this area.

Gold issues have turned increasingly volatile and therefore must be considered increasingly vulnerable. For all the wide swinging recently the golds appear to be losing ground. American South African recently touched a new reaction low and is now in a near-term downtrend. Similar performances were recorded in the trading of the other leading gold issues, i.e., Homestake Mining, Dome Mining, Campbell Red Lake. Therefore, short-term trading accounts should take remaining profits until some consolidation or a clearer near-term trend indicates higher levels.

THE INCREASING cash position of the funds has created a significant potential demand for stocks. However, there are still indications of more distribution than accumulation. The recent tape action has turned sluggish but is still more negative than positive. Until the big traders begin to buy on balance and until the odd-lot traders begin to sell on a balance, the intermediate outlook will remain unfavorable.

Among the issues under large-scale accumulation which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, Heller, W. E. EG & C. Among the issues under large-scale distribution which are regarded unfavorably are: St. Regis Paper, Union Carbide, Avco, Eastern Air Lines.

Chrysler was one of the strongest stocks prior to the current downturn in the market. Recently it has shown particular relative strength, especially in view of the current weakness in the auto group as a whole. The recent rebound was based on good tape action. The recent rally was supported by a small trading pattern between 48-50. It has moved up sharply into the 56-58 area which is expected to represent significant resistance until a more definite market outlook is evident. While some consolidation is expected at current levels, it would be regarded as an attractive trading vehicle on any low-volume dip into the 48-50 area. Until a definite trend is evident, short-term trading accounts could take profits in the mid-50s and repurchase in the low 50s.

THE MINOR TREND is down. The recent acceleration on the downside has resulted in a new low for the market. This suggests the need for further consolidation or correction before any significant confidence and interest are expected to develop.

The market appears poised for another intermediate downswing as the DJI has violated the 825-830 area of support that had held on three previous pullbacks. The amount of backing and filling that preceded the recent downside penetration gives a technical objective to the 780-800 level. No significant rebound is expected from current levels and any improvement in prices over the short term will be considered more of a selling than a buying opportunity. The recent market developments are expected to affect even the stronger trading positions.

WARNER-7 EXEC FINED AS SMUGGLER

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI) — Norman B. Katz, executive vice president of Warner Brothers-Seven Arts International film company, was fined $1,875 by customs Friday for allegedly trying to smuggle $800 in gems out of the country.

The gems were confiscated by customs agents at Colombo's airport. Mayor Jabir Cader of Colombo, who is Warner Brothers' chief representative in Ceylon, undertook to pay the fine. Katz has been in Ceylon on a visit to the film company's agents.

City Employee of Year Contest Open

Nominations are now open for Long Beach's "City Employee of the Year," a contest sponsored by the City Employees Association in cooperation with the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Buffum's Declares 17.5 Cent Dividend

Directors of the Long Beach headquartered Buffum's department store declared a quarterly dividend of 17.5 cents a share on the common stock.

The dividend, which increased from the 12.5 cents maintained for the last three years, is payable April 17, to shareholders of record March 29.

Each department of city government is entitled to nominate one of its employees for the honor. Final selection will be by a judging committee composed of the president of the Board of Realtors, one member of the city's Personnel Department, a representative from the Civil Service Commission and two members of the City Employees Association.

Announcement of the winner will be made during Realtors' Week in May at the Board of Realtors annual breakfast.

Factors to be considered by the judges include length of service, ability, attendance record, conscientious service, courtesy in dealing with the public, ability for advancement, and civic, fraternal and community activity.

Henry Schultz, general manager of the City Employees Association, emphasized that the selection "is not a popularity contest," but is aimed at recognizing a city employee for his "outstanding dedication to the job."

Deadline for city departments to submit nominees is April 15.

Leave It To Larry

By L.J. (LARRY) MEDER HARBOR CHEVROLET

Thank you, folks, for your postcards and letters, one of which I found extremely funny. Here it is: Leave it to Larry L. J. (Larry) MEDER c/o HARBOR CHEVROLET

"Dear Leave it to." Obviously I don't read you every Saturday, for I don't know what your great quarrel is all about, but I usually have for years.

It has occasionally afforded some such bright spot that I've looked for it at times.

Yes, keep it up. If you ever run out of humor, borrow some. Say from Uncle Millie, who is still around and couldn't possibly sue you for plagiarism.

It has become an institution. Like what I am writing from.

Best Regards,

Bob R.

(I withheld his full name because I know anyone as clever as he, is certainly not confined!)

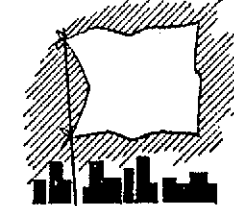

With so many people now dabbling in the stock market, I permitted a friend of mine (Ernie Quinn) to talk me into investing one thousand dollars apiece in an abandoned gold mine. As it turned out Ernie got the gold—and I got the shaft!

Folks, Harbor Chevrolet isn't No. 1 because we tried harder—we tried hardest—that's why we're first! See Larry personally.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Nothing could be more intimidating to a tree than to plant it in a 3½x7-foot planter that is part of a business building wall, with a sidewalk in front.

This beautiful but abused thorny tree, Chorisia "Floss silk tree," is from Brazil. It has lilypink bright pink flowers in autumn and early winter, and the silk or cotton of its seed pods is soft enough to be used for pillows and cushions.

Folk who never have seen these trees in bloom are overwhelmed by their beauty.

The particular Chorisia tree growing in that planter never will thrive because it is too close to the east exposure building wall, with the footing wall beneath the soil extending into the planter area. The poor tree is growing spindly, due to lack of sun and good soil.

ANOTHER serious problem trees growing in lawns may be afflicted with is due to improper and insufficient watering. Such trees simply don't get enough water from the lawn sprinkler system even if the lawns are watered two or three times a week. It is no wonder that some years later the large tree roots start to push up the lawn sod! By that time it is too late to correct this problem, because those large roots must not be cut off in order to level the lawn surface.

Such trees may be helped, though, if the gardener puts a soil soaker around the tree at the drip line and runs the water for hours to soak the soil at least four feet or more deep. He should do this at monthly intervals in the dry season.

We discussed the beautiful blue flowering tree Jacaranda in a column last month. Some of our readers wanted to know when is the best time to prune them. We recommend they be pruned after they have finished flowering.

FLOWERING peaches, plums, cherries and crab apples should be pruned back when they have finished blooming even though they are in full leafage. They are deciduous, that is, leafless in winter. From now on you are likely to see ants busily scrambling up a citrus tree, or some other tree or shrub. They are after food, which may be from aphids, scale, or mealy bugs who exude a substance that attracts ants.

Inspect the ant-infested plant to determine what kind of pests are attracting them. Use the insecticide spray which lists the kind of pest on that plant. Spray the plant thoroughly. If the infested tree is too large for you to spray, hire a licensed pest-control man your nurseryman recommends.

IF YOU don't spray the infested plants, the bugs later might migrate to other plants in your garden, which will be a more serious and expensive problem. Ants will leave the sprayed plants. You'd be wise, though, to spray any ant nests found in your garden with an insecticide spray that lists "ants" among other chewing pests label. Be sure to spray all around your house foundation at the soil line. This is insurance to keep the ants from invading the house.

Hibiscus usually are not seriously infested by pests, but Chinese tropical hibiscus should be pruned if they need it. Time to do it is from latter part of March and no later than about mid May.

The same general pruning rules apply to hibiscus as for many other kinds of evergreen or deciduous blooming shrubs. Decide how far down you want to cut back the branches, then cut always close to a leaf, or a leafless bud, or above a remainder side branch.

Queries, Answers

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. How can we get rid of toadstools, which for three years have popped up in different areas of our lawn? Mrs. K. K. Kennedy.

A. Such toadstools indicate trees were rooted out in the past. As the remaining roots decay, toadstools sprout during one decomposition phase and will continue to do so until this phase is past. Either root them out with an asparagus knife as they first come up or try a fungicide, Potassium permanganate of potash might work; use one tsp. per gal. of water and pour over and around the toadstools.

Q. Roots from my neighbor's rice paper tree keep coming under the wall and sprouting in my rose bed. How can I get rid of them without uprooting my roses? C.G.

A. There's no positive control, except to continue digging up the suckers back to the wall. The rice paper plant (Tetrapanax papyriferum) is a vicious, root-suckering plant that should not be grown anywhere around the house. All you can hope for is that your neighbor will tire of digging up the suckers in HIS yard and take out the plant.

Q. When and how should I prune a Santa Rosa plum tree that is about 6 years old, bore well in 1966 but had only a few blossoms last year? O.X.

A. You should have pruned it in late December or early in January. Fruit is borne on lower portions of branches that have short spurs, so the whiplike branches should be cut back to within six inches of the spurs. Thickly set branches should be cut out to allow wider spacing.

SOLON VOTES FOR PHLOX

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a horticulturist before he plunged into politics some 40 years ago, says the phlox should be the national flower.

"It's the most thoroughly American flower, with 70-odd species," Aiken said.

Who's 1st? It's 'A' as in UCLA, 101-69

By LOEL SCHRADER
As any school child knows, "A" comes before "E."

And that's the way it was at the L.A. Sports Arena Friday night as the Big A, Lew Alcindor, ate up the Big E, Elvin Hayes, as defending national champion UCLA crushed top-ranked Houston, 101-69, in the semifinals of the National Collegiate Basketball Tournament.

The second half had hardly begun before Bruin fans among the record Sports Arena crowd of 15,742 began chanting,

"We're No. 1, we're No. 1." That, however, must be demonstrated at 7 tonight when the Bruins seek their fourth national championship in five years when they meet tall but sputtering North Carolina in the final game.

The Tar Heels defeated Ohio State, 80-66, in the first game of the uproarious evening to qualify for a shot at the Bruins.

This, it may eventually transpire, may be akin to asking for a drink of poison—that is, if UCLA matches its Friday night performance.

The Bruins' smashing triumph over Houston was something to behold. Alcindor clearly dominated the game of big men, a factor entirely different when the Cougars handed the Bruins their only loss in the two seasons, 71-60, at the Astro-dome in January.

When the two top men of college basketball matched talents before 52,693 in Houston, Alcindor was fresh out of bed after sustaining a scratched eyeball. Left unchecked, Hayes rampaged for 39 points, 29 in the first half.

But he never figured Friday night when the national championship was probably on the line Alcindor gobbled up the opening tip-off with his huge hands, setting the stage for the many scenes of frustration which were to follow for the Big E.

UCLA coach John Wooden threw a "diamond and one" defense against Houston, with 6-5 forward Lynn Shackelford assigned the task of stifling Hayes, recently selected college basketball's "Player of the Year."

The final result clearly demonstrates the success of Shackelford and the defense. Hayes was limited to 10 shot attempts and made only three. Elvin had five rebounds and 10 points.

Alcindor, on the other hand, canned 7 of 14 shots attempts and added five of six free throws for 19 points. More importantly, he clearly intimidated Houston's shooters and also pulled down 18 rebounds.

There were many other luminaries among the Bruins, but Alcindor's obvious domination of Hayes destroyed Houston.

Five UCLA players were in double figures, Lucius Allen and Mike Lynn getting 19 each and Shackelford scoring 17, five baskets coming on high archers from the corner, his specialty. Shackelford's amazing outside accuracy also played a major role in UCLA's 73-58 win over Houston in the semifinals of last year's national tournament.

The Bruins stepped up the tempo of their attack as compared to their game at the Astro-dome, and it paid off in many easy baskets. This factor helped to pad their shooting percentage to 51.8 on 43 field goals in 83 attempts.

Houston, however, shot miserably, principally because Hayes had a constant shadow and Alcindor was frightening shooters from close range.

The Cougars, who had gone over 100 points in 12 of their last 14 games, made only 22 of 78 shots, or 28.2 per cent.

Asked if a team of his had ever shot so poorly, Cougar coach Guy Lewis responded: "Yes, once we shot only 28 per cent against North Texas State."

Lewis, however, hardly expected a miserable performance such as this in a showdown with UCLA. Only a year earlier he had predicted a higher-scoring game than the 71-69 Astro-dome contest, and had said he expected Hayes to get more than the 25 shots he had taken at Houston.

Little did he realize, however, that the Bruins would go on a binge of such proportions.

From the time Alcindor sucked in the opening tip-off, the Bruins were clear-

'Diamond and One' Key to Big Win—Wooden

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH

A "diamond-and-one" defense was credited by UCLA coach John Wooden as the main reason for the Bruins' astonishing 101-69 victory over No. 1 ranked Houston in an NCAA semifinal contest billed as the game-of-the-century.

The defense never had been used before by Wooden, but it was constructed to contain Houston's great all-America Elvin Hayes. The player assigned to be the special man in the unique defense was 6-5 forward Lynn Shackelford. And Lynn did a tremendous job on "Big E," holding the Houston ace to 10 points, the lowest scoring output of his career.

"We wanted to play Hayes very tight," explained Wooden. "I picked Shack to dog Hayes because of his quickness and because he is a tremendously hard worker. His job was to keep Hayes away from the board and let Alcindor, Lynn, and Allen work the boards."

"We conceded the outside shot to everyone except Hayes and naturally I'm tremendously happy the way we tied up Hayes because he is a fine player."

What was the difference in Friday night's game in the L.A. Sports Arena and the one which Houston won over the Bruins in the Texas city?

"I never alibied after that game," replied Wooden, "but one of the two main differences was the health of Lew Alcindor. He was a shell of himself in that first game. Tonight he was 100 percent healthy. The other difference was that we were playing in Los Angeles instead of Houston."

Wooden admitted he didn't expect such an overwhelming win, but he conceded that "we felt we were a better team than some people, including my contemporaries, thought we were after the loss in Houston."

"The pre-game Houston talk about how they were gunning for us and were better than when they played us before certainly didn't hurt us. We waited a long time for this victory and it was sweet. It was my most satisfying victory in coaching."

Does UCLA know anything about North Carolina, tonight's championship game foe?

"No," shot back the Bruin coach, "but that's nothing new. We don't know a lot about many teams that we play. I do know North Carolina's general style and that's all that counts."

What if the Tarheels slow down the pace instead of trying to run with the Bruins?

"If they play a ball control game, we'll just try to beat it. Maybe the rules committee will do something if it is an exaggerated ball control game."

Houston coach Guy Lewis said "I feel like a dead man. UCLA put on the greatest exhibition of basketball I've ever seen. In the first half they were really fired up. Maybe the newspaper stories had something to do with that."

"But I congratulate UCLA. I think they'll be the NCAA champions. Nobody could beat UCLA the way they played tonight."

"We weren't ready to play tonight and I don't know why. The UCLA zone was the first time I've seen it this season. We were shooting too quickly and too poorly. Our 28 percent shooting percentage was the lowest we ever had. There was nothing wrong with Hayes, either. The defense just stopped him."

North Carolina's beaming coach Dean Smith said he didn't care whether his Tarheels played UCLA or Houston in the finale. "We're just glad to be in the finals," remarked Smith. "Our win over Ohio State made up for our sorry performance last year." The Tarheels finished fourth in the NCAA championships in '67.

"It will be tough for us to rebound against either

Moffitt Muffles Trojans

Randy Moffitt turned in one of the most spectacular performances in Cal State Long Beach history Friday night, nearly defeating USC, 3-0, singlehandedly in a game at Blair Field.

Moffitt, who blanked the Trojans, 1-0, on four hits three weeks ago, limited USC to three hits Friday, struck out 16 and tripled in one of the 49ers' runs.

CAL STATE has little time to relish its 11th victory in 14 tries, however, meeting Utah this morning at 11 on the campus field.

The 49ers hadn't scored in 17 innings for Moffitt when the seventh inning began on a single by John McKee.

Denny Parks forced McKee for the first out but Parks got the 49ers their first run by scoring from first when USC's centerfielder couldn't handle Tony Guggiana's line single.

Guggiana, who reached second on the throw, scored on Steve Lewelling's base hit and Moffitt brought home his batterymate with a one-hop triple off the right field wall.

Spring Sports Day Today

Cal State Long Beach hosts the National Outdoor spectator endurance championships today with its Spring Sports Day.

The outdoor championships won't rival the indoor meet, held each New Year's Day in living room throughout America when millions grew bleary-eyed watching 10 hours of football.

However, any fan at Cal State today who witnesses the first track event at 10 a.m. and the final football play at 4:30 p.m., can consider himself the outdoor record holder or co-holder if two make it.

Survivors, alumni and friends of Cal State and its Day are invited to a social, beginning after the final football play, at 1411 Vuelte Grande, Long Beach.

Spring Sports Day begins at 10 a.m. with the 49er track team a slight favorite to defeat visiting Cal Poly, Pomona. The best individual event should be the javelin where Cal State's Dick Nelson (223-4) challenges Pomona's Frank San Filippo (226-1).

Bob Wuethoff's baseball team enters the second ring at 11 a.m. with a double-header against the barnstorming University of Utah. John Zar and Steve Wright will start for the 49ers.

At noon, Dan Campbell's tennis team becomes act No. 3 with a match against Cal Western.

The finale begins at 3 p.m. when Don Reed presents a sneak preview of his football team with an intrasquad game.

Reed has his offense scrimmage against the defense with the winner being determined by an involved point system. The defense remains a 14-point favorite.

BIG DODGER DEAL ONLY HOURS AWAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The Dodgers are within hours of closing an important trade with Houston, this newspaper learned Friday night.

General manager Buzzie Bavasi, who seldom makes a trip, accompanied the Dodgers here for Friday's exhibition with the Cardinals and was to meet this afternoon with John Mullin of the Astros' front office.

If the much discussed deal goes through, the Dodgers will get Houston third baseman Bob Aspromonte in exchange for outfielder Ron Fairly.

Bavasi also planned to meet with Mets general manager John Murphy and conferred briefly with Reds assistant general manager Phil Seghi Friday.

Kings Put St. Louis on Ice; Flyers Next

By RICH ROBERTS

It may be all over at the L.A. Sports Arena but they were only setting the stage at the Forum Friday night.

The Kings took the St. Louis Blues apart — overture, chorus and refrain — the 6-1 stampede spurred by Ted Irvine's two-goal burst.

The crowd of 8,753 included several members of the Philadelphia Flyers, who will be trying to protect the lead in the National Hockey League's West Division that they wrested from the Kings last December.

The Kings can climb into a tie by stretching their longest unbeaten streak of the season to seven games. But Philly is hot, too — unbeaten in its last five.

The Kings' all-out assault of 40 shots drove veteran Glenn Hall from the St. Louis nets during a four-goal charge in the last period. Solos by Bill Flett, Howie Hughes, Ed Jovai and Bill White joined Irvine's pair.

Irvine, the shy, quiet one, appears to be well out of his season-long slump with four goals in the last three games and 16 overall.

Flett's zinger, his 26th, edged him within four of

Then a courageous assist by little Howie Menard lifted the Kings to a 3-1 lead 39 seconds into the last period, and it was free skating from there.

Menard drew two defensemen with him and dropped the puck back to Howie Hughes for an open shot on Hall just before sliding hard into the boards, where he lay in pain for a half a minute.

The Kings broke it wide open with Irvine's second goal and then Jovai's only 14 seconds apart at the eight-minute mark. They simply drilled the puck through Hall from long range, and that's how Blues coach Scotty Bowman brought in Seth Martin with the bullpen.

White fired the sixth goal past Martin with four minutes left with Real Lemieux blocking the goalie's view.

King coach Red Kelly was completely pleased with his club's fiery play.

"They played a bang of a hockey game," he said in his highest praise. "They went all out for 60 minutes, and when they play like that there aren't too many clubs can handle 'em."

Since most of the action was at St. Louis' end of the rink, Wayne Rutledge's return to the Kings' net was off stage-center.

"It takes a while to get going," said Rutledge, who was a bit uncertain at times after starting his first game since Montreal shelled him on March 5.

Rutledge was whiplashed against the crossbar in the second period and had a sore neck after the game but may still get tonight's call over Terry Sawchuk, who has a sore knee.

BLUE LINES: NHL Playoff tickets went on sale Friday night. Tickets for any of the Kings' potential 12 home games are priced $2.50 to $6.50. The playoffs open Thursday, April 4, in the home arenas of the first and second-place teams. ... The Blues had just brought up left wing Don McKenney after a month on the Kansas City farm. ... Forwards Tim Ecclestone and Bill McCrory are injured. ... Ed Jovai's goal and two assists gave him 56 points and the West Division scoring lead three ahead of Pittsburgh's Andy Batherson. ... The Kings didn't lose a home game in the Blues' winning four and tying one. They didn't win one in St. Louis, either (0-3-2), but took the season series, 4-3-1.

NINE SCHOOL RECORDS BROKEN Big NCAA Lead for 49ers

ATLANTA, Ga. — A total team effort pushed Cal State Long Beach closer to the NCAA, college division, swim championships Friday as the 49ers increased their lead over defending champion UC Santa Barbara to 100 points.

"Barring a complete fold-up," coach Don Gambrell said, "I would think we are in good shape. We have strong people in every event Saturday."

Gambrell could afford to be a little more optimistic. In the 10 events, excluding diving, held through Friday night, his swimmers have tied one school record and broken the other nine. Collectively, the 49ers have shaved 42.5 seconds off school standards.

"I have never taken a ly in command. Allen hit a 15-footer after 38 seconds of action and the Bruins built up a 12-4 edge within four minutes.

The Cougars got their bearings at this point, however, and UCLA's margin had been whittled to 20-19 when the Bruins launched one of their blitzes. In the next nine minutes, they outscored Houston 33-9, and they were leading by 53-31 at halftime.

those television cameras pan in on you?"

Undaunted, Alcindor replied: "I hope it's in color."

There could have been no more of a bizarre conclusion to a memorable evening.

North Carolina utilized superior speed and rebounding strength to lead most of the way in its victory over Ohio State.

The Tar Heels moved to an early lead, surrendered it briefly with 7:41 remaining in the first half then shot back in front with 10 consecutive points to take a 34-27 edge.

The second half was as much of a rout as the first until Wooden eased off.

The Bruins, with Allen and Warren leading fast breaks, built their lead to 44 points, 95-51, before Wooden began sending in second-liners with six minutes remaining.

Hayes drew his fifth goal tending call with two minutes left and was yanked out a minute later. It was a sad sight for Elvin, and his asking price from the pros must have taken a frightful beating.

North Carolina appeared to be comfortably ahead most of the second half but ran into danger when its center, 6-10 Rusty Clark, drew his fourth foul with 11:29 left.

The Tar Heels, however, built up a 14-point lead with less than seven minutes remaining before the Buckeyes, led by guard Jody Finney, made six consecutive points in less than a minute.

At this point, sophomore Charlie Scott took charge for the Tar Heels, pulling them out of range with three consecutive baskets.

Center Ken Spain tried valiantly to keep the Cougars in the running and had 15 points and 13 rebounds. Guard Don Chaney also scored 15.

Wooden still refused to disclose the meaning of a "No. 1" pin he was wearing.

Alcindor, however, let the world know who was No. 1. Big Lewis left the Sports Arena in an African "dignity robe," symbolic in Kenya of the "head man" or "No. 1 man" of a tribe.

Someone asked: "What if

Ohio State coach Fred Taylor claimed that his Buckeyes lost momentum at the half and "we gave North Carolina some cheap baskets. The same thing happened at the end of the last quarter. We gave them so many second and third shots that it was silly. But it was our own fault."

All-America Larry Miller led North Carolina in scoring with 20, but Clark, Scott and Bill Bunting probably contributed more to the Tar Heel win.

team, but we got this far and don't intend to give up now. UCLA has the home crowd, but anything can happen.

"I don't usually let my boys watch a game in which a team they're playing next is playing because I don't want them overconfident. However, in this case, I'll let the boys watch the first half of the UCLA-Houston game, then we'll all go home. No matter who they play Saturday they won't be overconfident."

Ellis Has Another Long Nightmare: 9 Runs, 13 Hits

By ROSS NEWMAN Staff Writer

PALM SPRINGS — Sammy Ellis, the answer to a dream, suffered another nightmare Friday.

He was creamed for 13 hits and nine runs by the Chicago Cubs. He went to work in the sixth inning and left in the eighth. It was 1-0 and then 10-0.

fast ball and to compensate he must add a measure of finesse.

The curve ball alone, they say, won't do, but by changing his grip he would restore prestige to the fast-ball.

Bob Lemon explained. "Ellis has lost the flame," said the pitching coach. "It comes to all pitchers and it requires an adjustment."

"In Ellis' case, a change of grip would increase the fluctuation. This would equalize the loss of velocity."

It is an adjustment Ellis will not accept, saying he has employed the same grip since he was 14.

This infuriates Rigney. "I don't care what he did when he was 14," said Rigney. "I only care about today."

"Ellis looked like he was playing catch. He wasn't throwing hard enough to pitch batting practice."

"That's not going to get it done for me. I've got guys dying to pitch and Ellis isn't going to stand in their way. I'm not going to watch him baby it up there."

Rigney went to the mound in the eighth inning and made the following inquiry of Ellis: "Are you throwing as hard as you can?"

Ellis answered: "Yes."

Dumbfounded, Rigney removed the would-be ace. "He just won't listen," said Rigney. "If I was Ellis I'd wake up tomorrow and take a long hard look at myself in the mirror."

The bruises from Friday's beating should show and so should the shadows of Jack Hamilton and Fred Newman, both making big bids for berths in the rotation.

"What's happening to Ellis," said Lemon, "may be a God-send. Sometimes you

Fist Fight Spices Spring Baseball

Associated Press

A fist fight between Dennis Ribant, Detroit pitcher, and George Thomas, Boston outfielder, enlivened the exhibition baseball scene Friday.

It happened during the sixth inning of the game at Lakeland, Fla., won by Detroit 8-6. Thomas, at bat, asked plate umpire Jo O'Donnell to examine the ball after one of Ribant's pitches.

"He threw me a couple of spitters, and I asked the umpire to look at the ball," Thomas said, Ribant threw the ball over Thomas' head. Thomas ran to the mound as players of both teams rushed onto the field.

Philadelphia snapped a seven-game losing streak on Tony Taylor's ninth-inning single for a 9-8 victory over Oakland at Clearwater, Fla.

Frank Quilici hit a grand slam homer in the sixth inning at Tampa to headline Minnesota's 11-1 rout of Cincinnati.

Frank Howard drove in three runs to pace Washington over Pittsburgh 8-2 at Fort Myers, Fla.

Atlanta reeled off five double plays in a 5-1 triumph over the New York Mets at West Palm Beach, Fla., and San Francisco edged Cleveland 5-4 at Phoenix, Arizona.
